Nicol Forces Predict Victory at the Primaries.

MAKE ESTIMATE OF VOTES

Supporters Declare Former Judge Will Receive at Least 3,800—Several City Officials Will Be Elected Next Month—Discharged Union Men to Demand Reinstatement.

WASHINGTON HERALD BUREAU, (Bell Telephone 112.)
Corner of Prince and Royal Streets.

Alexandria, Va., June 15.—That Judge Charles E. Nicol will far outdistance all competitors in the Democratic primary to be held next Wednesday for the nomination of a candidate for Congress from this district is the prediction given out this evening at the headquarters of Judge Nicol's supporters in this city. After receiving late reports from the various counties of the district, it was said, and, considering the various estimates submitted, it was agreed among the persons who are looking after Judge Nicol's local interests that a total of about 3,800 is a conservative estimate of the vote Judge Nicol will receive in the primary. Judge Nicol's supporters declare that this means that he will be far ahead of the next man in the race.

The following figures were given out in explaining the prediction: Judge Nicol's vote in Prince William, his home county, and in Fairfax, over 800 each; in Loudoun and Fauquier, over 500 each; in Stafford and King George, over 100 each; in Culpeper, 250; in Louisa and Orange, over 100 each; in Alexandria County, over 250. Figures for the city are not specified, but it is stated that Judge Nicol expects to receive a large and gratifying vote in Alexandria.

Speaking for himself, Judge Nicol said to-day that, in his opinion, his nomination is as good as assured. He said that no one can predict with absolute certainty as to the result, but that judging from the trend of sentiment as he has found it all over the district, he confidently believes that he will win by a big vote. In his opinion, he has been steadily growing stronger as the campaign progressed.

New City Officials.

Several city officials will be elected by the city council in July. Among them will be police commissioners, from the Fourth ward, health officer, physician to the poor, dispensers of medicine, fire wardens, chief of fire department, keeper of almshouse, weigher of hay, and several of officers. It is said that the present officials will be unopposed, but that a new police commissioner for the Fourth ward will be elected, as Commissioner E. C. Graham, who represents that ward, now resides in the First ward.

Odd Fellows Elect.

Potomac Lodge of Odd Fellows has elected the following officers for the ensuing term of six months: J. W. Willis, noble grand; N. L. Williamson, vice noble grand; W. W. Shawmond, recording secretary; W. E. Latham, financial secretary; L. M. Davis, treasurer, and Edgar Lykes, chaplain. These officers will be installed next Friday evening by the district deputy grand master.

Union Men Demand Reinstatement.

The reinstatement of all the discharged union employees, it is stated, will be the end sought by the committees representing the Alexandria Trades Council and the Central Labor Union of Washington, which will hold an interview to-morrow at noon with Superintendent Colvin, of the Washington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon Railway Company, in an effort to settle the differences between the company and the local union of electric railway employees. A union man to-night declared that unless the company agreed to some satisfactory terms organized labor would in all probability take decided steps in defense of the discharged employees. In this connection he intimated that Luna Park might be removed from the list of resorts patronized by union men.

LONGS FOR OLD FLAG

Baltimore Wants Original Star Spangled Banner.

INSPIRED NATIONAL ANTHEM

Mayor Mahool Opens Negotiations with Owner of Emblem Which Floated Over Fort Miffler When Francis Scott Key Wrote His Famous Song—Suggests Subscription.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Baltimore, June 15.—Because he believes the Star Spangled Banner, the flag which floated over Fort Miffler in 1814 during the battle with the British fleet, should remain in Baltimore, where the national hymn was written, Mayor Mahool to-day wrote to Eben Appleton, of New York, who now owns the flag, asking if he would enter his negotiations with the city of Baltimore relative to the return to the city of the famous relic.

"There is no place where the Star Spangled Banner would be more sacredly guarded than here in Baltimore," said Mayor Mahool to-day. "This city is the logical resting place of the famous old flag, and it would be venerated and honored here as nowhere else in America. If it is possible, I should certainly like to see it returned here."

Baltimore Deeply Interested.

"I have no way of knowing what Mr. Appleton's views regarding the final disposition of the flag are, except what I have seen in the papers. I have written him, however, telling him of the great interest among Baltimoreans in the final resting place of the flag, and explaining that it is the general belief here that the old flag should find its permanent home in Baltimore, where it inspired Key to write the national anthem."

"It may be necessary to take up a popular subscription to insure a fitting resting place for this famous old flag, but I am sure the people of Baltimore will willingly subscribe to such a patriotic fund. I have hopes that Mr. Appleton will recognize our appeal for the return of the flag, and that before many days are passed we may again have this historical banner with us."

Waved Over Fort Miffler.

The Star Spangled Banner which waved over Fort Miffler during the fight with the British in 1814, became the property, after the battle, of Maj. George Armstrong, who commanded the fort, and descended through relatives until it became the property of Mr. Appleton, of New York.

He was quoted recently as saying that he had originally intended to will the flag to some Maryland institution, but, answered by a request from the old Maryland Jockey Club for the use of the flag on the Pimlico race course during the Sequen Centennial of the city, he determined that the flag should never come to Baltimore, where it was apparently held in such slight regard. He is also quoted as saying that he intended to will it to some historical association in Massachusetts.

WATSON WINS MANY PRIZES.

Baltimorean's Success at London Horse Show Creates Comment.

Baltimore, Md., June 15.—The success which Clarence W. Watson, of this city, is meeting with at the International Horse Show in London has led many of his friends here to send him congratulatory messages.

Mr. Watson began about two years ago to get together a stable of show horses, and exhibited them at the various shows around the country. Some of his acquaintances have endeavored from time to time to learn what Mr. Watson has spent on his stable, and what it costs him to maintain it. He has estimated by some that he has spent $200,000 for the horses in his stable, while others say the animals cost him far in excess of this figure, and that he has spent more than an eighth of that amount a year in maintaining the stable.

Perhaps the best-known horse in Mr. Watson's collection is Lord Baltimore.

This animal is undoubtedly the most versatile show horse in the world.

PURCELL TO RUN AGAIN.

Prince William Man Expects Yet to Be Governor of Virginia.

Maj. J. R. Purcell, of Gainesville, Prince William County, Va., was in Washington for a few hours yesterday. It will be recalled that he was a factor in the preliminary gubernatorial skirmish of 1905, but did not qualify because of the requirement of the State committee that each candidate put up $1,500.

"I intend to be in the race again," said Maj. Purcell yesterday. "And I expect to be governor of Virginia. As the father of the primary system I want to see it honestly applied to elections. If the committee can say a candidate must contribute $1,500 it can also fix the amount at $15,000 or $150,000. Following this out to its logical conclusion the committee may fix such a requirement that would debar any Virginian from running for governor except Hon. Thomas F. Ryan."

Asked what issue he would run upon in 1909, he said: "It is too early to say. The issue will yet develop, but I am for individualism and State rights."

Maj. Purcell is inclined to think that ex-Speaker Ryan, of Loudoun County, will be first or second in the Eighth district Congressional race, which is to be decided at the primaries next Wednesday. He says that Mr. Ryan has been making a thorough but quiet canvass, and that he will surely get a large vote. Mr. Carlin, he added, was spending the most money.

Maj. Purcell has a very high regard for Judge Nicol, who is of his county, and indicated that he would like to see him on the Supreme bench.

CADETS PLAN SUMMER TRIP

Outing This Year Includes Visit to Fair and Ocean Voyage.

High school boys with a military bent are in a fever of excitement over the prospect of a trip to Jamestown and a voyage on the ocean from the big expedition to the summer camp at Ocean City, N. J. The cadets in good standing all want to go, and their friends have discovered a leaning toward this military because of the other allurements of such a trip.

The announcement of the proposed itinerary was made at a meeting at the temporary headquarters, Fourteenth and G streets, last night. Because of the bad weather there has been little enthusiasm in a camping trip for this season, but Chairman Davis, of the enlistment committee, has succeeded in arousing enthusiasm by adding the sightseeing tour to the regular features of the outing. It is proposed to limit the membership to 140. Letters from the steamship and railroad companies indicate the cost of the trip will be about $40 for each cadet. The Jamestown authorities have promised to place hospital tents at the disposal of the cadets during their stay at the expedition.

The annual outing is for the purpose of developing military inclinations in the high school lads, and the cadets and ex-cadets have formed a permanent organization, known as the "Cadet Alumni Club." This organization has obtained the ownership of the tents, cots, rifles, cooking utensils, dishes, and camp equipment used each summer. It is the ultimate intention to erect a clubhouse, either in Washington, or some other suitable place. Capt. F. H. Linthicum, Company F, Eastern High, winner of the '05 drill, is president of the club; Capt. W. J. Bland, Company H, Western High, '06 winner, and cadet colonel of the camp, is first vice president; Capt. Raymond S. Hart, this year's winning captain, was unanimously elected second vice president at the meeting last night. Capt. Claude C. Caylor, Company A, Central High, '06, is treasurer; Capt. M. C. Auerbach, Technical High, '07, is secretary, and at the meeting last night, Capt. H. O. Howard was elected corresponding secretary and authorized to rent the rooms at Fourteenth and G streets, where the cadet meetings have been held.
